Overview

What is battery energy storage in South Africa?

In South Africa, Battery Energy Storage is a key aspect of the first-of-its-kind hybrid project, Oya. Straddling the Western and Northern Cape Provinces, the hybrid facility will offer 86MW wind and 155MW Solar PV dispatchable power, coupled with 92MW/ 242 MWh battery energy storage.

Is South Africa the future of battery storage?

The global battery storage market is witnessing exponential growth, and South Africa has the potential to carve a niche for itself within this dynamic landscape.

How can South Africa develop a sustainable and competitive battery storage industry?

Addressing this gap is crucial for the development of a sustainable and competitive domestic industry. Competition: The global battery storage industry is already dominated by established players, particularly in Asian countries. South Africa needs to develop a strong value proposition to attract investments and compete effectively.

Can South Africa produce a battery?

The Netherlands is the primary destination for South Africa's ferro-alloys and ferro-vanadium exports, while South Korea is a growing market for these products. South Africa lacks the manufacturing capabilities for the production of battery storage. It remains to be proven whether such an activity would be competitive domestically, says Nikomarov.

How many EVs are there in South Africa?

Yet in 2020, there were just 6,000 EVs on South African roads and all EVs, including hybrid models, accounted for less than 0.2% of new car sales. In Kenya, another major potential market, EVs only account for an estimated 350 of the country's 2.2 million cars.

Why does South Africa Import battery packs?

South Africa imports battery packs for assembly, mostly to China which has well-established battery production facilities. As the imports increase, more battery-related jobs will therefore come from assembling battery packs for local use and distribution to neighbouring countries.
